

"JUST A QUICK ONE"

— PART 2 —

BLACKBERRIES

By Steven Brown

"JUST A QUICK ONE" — PART 2 — BLACKBERRIES

Welcome to the sequel for "Just A Quick one", my real-life adventures with my Dad. This time, we're off on a day trip to a coastal town on the east coast of England. If you haven't read the first book then don't worry, you can read this as a stand-alone comic.

Written and Drawn By Steven Brown
Edited By Danielle (Apples) Coxon-Smith
February 2019

So I fetch a couple of bags from the car, and within a few minutes we're on our way to filling them up with blackberries from a stranger's garden, at a housing estate I've never been to before.

Fifteen minutes later, we're sat in this bloke's house having a cup of tea and talking in great detail about the house and estate, the area in general, past holidays, where it was this chap was from and why he came here and what everyone did for a living etc.

So this part of the house seems like an extension. Was it like this when you moved in?

We had it done a few years back. Just the Kitchen-diner area and the roof light.

It's nice. You can keep that bag of blackberries if you like. I'm gonna make some blackberry gin with mine.

Alright yeah, nice, thanks.

Ugghhh. Not more gin.

IT'S GIN O'CLOCK THE GIN PHASE

A bottle of gin with a label that says "GIN" and a glass of gin and tonic.

One day, Dad turned up unannounced (he does this quite a bit).

Back at the stranger's house in Chapel St Leonards, where we had been for quite some time now.

I had a caravan in 1995, then a trailer tent in 1997...

Uh huh.

I need a drink.

After telling the man some in-depth life history...

TO BE CONTINUED...

Oh no he Didn't? Oh yes he Did! It's a Cliffhanger (if you can Count arriving at a Toyota garage as a Cliffhanger). I'll Be Continuing this story at some Point in the future. I've still got loads of material to get Down.

Thanks for reading.
Steven Brown

